

❖ "S'Matter, Pop?"

(Copyright, 1911,
by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York World).)

By C. M. Payne

Spotlight Steve in Vaudeville

Copyright, 1911,
by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York World).

By Bowen

ROSIE; the Joy of New York Life

Copyright, 1911,
by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York World).

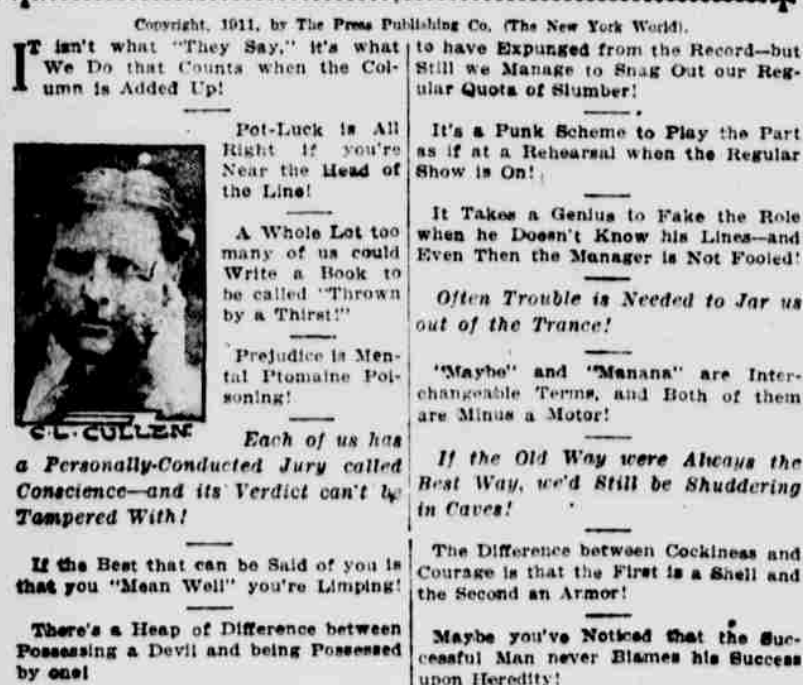

By Carmichael

“Cheer Up, Cuthbert!”

What's the Use of Being Blue?
There Is a Lot of Luck Left.

By Clarence L. Cullen.

Black Knights of the Road

Copyright, 1911,
by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York World)

By J. K. Bryans

"Don't bother me now, I'm in a hurry. I'll give you a dime on my way back." "Sorry, boss. But I don't never give no credit!"	"Wat cher cryin' for, Shorty?" "Boo hoo! I'm cryin' for the poor people in dis town. Everywher goes dey tell me dey ain't got a thing in de house tar eat!"	clerk at Euston. "Five dollars and half, Colonel," promptly replied the clerk.—London Chronicle.
UNMENTIONABLE. "Your friend is rather indelicate," remarked Mrs. Wombat. "Says she gave her husband some pantalones for Christmas." "What's wrong with that?" "I wouldn't think of mentioning sleeping garments in public."—Pittsburgh Post.	UNIVERSAL TALENT. "Don't you think umpires ought to receive higher salaries?" "Perhaps. But they can't expect them in the face of so much competition. There are thousands of people in the bleachers every day who are willing to step right over and take the job."—Washington Star.	THE AMERICAN ACCENT. There was an American once who had been so long in England that he imagined he had not only got quit of the "American" but had also shed the transatlantic accent. He deceived many, and was happy until the day of his return. "First class to Liverpool, how much?" said he to the booking
		EXPLAINED. Jack—Why did you give up your bachelor quarters? Tom—Because I'm going to marry dollars.—Birdsall's News.

Betty Vincent's Advice to Lovers

Letters to Betty Vincent received at The Evening World office up to noon each day will be answered in the following day's paper.

Betty Vincent

candy, a daintily framed picture of yourself are other gifts which suggest the

"Impossible" Presents.
A girl who signs herself "A. G." writes:
"I am engaged to an actor. He wants to buy me jewelry which I cannot afford to get for myself. May I accept it?"
No.

A man who signs himself "J. W." writes:
"I have known a young girl for several months, and am in love with her. Would it be proper to give her a ring for Christmas?"
Not unless you mean it for an engagement ring.

Girls' Problems.
A girl who signs herself "M." writes:
"The young man whom I love is offended at a remark I made to him. What shall I do to regain his affec-

Sammy and the Subway; the Quest of a Seat

Copyright, 1911,
by The Press Publishing Co.
(The New York World).

By
Clare Victor Dwiggin

A girl who signs herself "J. V. writes:
"There is a young man who corresponds with me regularly, and appeals to me to mention anyone else's attractions. Yet he never gives me anything or takes me anywhere. Do you think he cares for me?"
No, he is probably only a "dog in manager."

A girl who signs herself "L. writes:
"A young man has lately begun calling me by my first name, and he repeats it very often, as if he liked to say it. But he calls my first friends by their first names, too. Do you think he cares for me more than for the others?"
If he does he will tell you so.

A girl who signs herself "M. writes:
"My husband and I have quarreled repeatedly, and he recently left me. I am at home with my mother, but love my husband and I know he loves me. Shall I write to him to come back?"
Yes, if you still care for each other.

For the Man to Decide.

A man who signs himself "C. L. writes:
"I am in love with a girl who is a close model, but she is not at all like my marrying her because of her occupation. What shall I do?"
If you are over twenty-one marry her.